AFRICA

Our Senior Fellow Federico Donelli's Book

OCTOBER 15, 2025

We're excited to announce that our Senior Fellow Federico Donelli's book, Power Competition in the Red Sea: Testing the Post-Liberal International Order, is being published by Bloomsbury.

In this book, Federico Donelli explores the dynamics of this new scramble for Africa, analyzing the interests, agendas, and threats of extra-regional players, with a particular focus on China and the United States. Using a range of International Relations theories, the book delves into the economic, geopolitical, and security issues driving this competition, including the strategic importance of shipping routes and the threat of terrorism and transnational crime. By examining the alliances and military presence of great powers in the region, Donelli seeks to predict the outcomes of this engagement and the impact it will have on the current and future global power balances. A must-read for scholars and policy-makers alike, this book offers a timely and insightful analysis of the rapidly changing security environment in the Red Sea.

You can read more on the book here.